In recent years security issues has become important also to Baltic and Nordic countries. World is coping such challenges as migration, conflicts based on different cultural backgrounds, cyber-attacks and other new challenges. This leads to fact that there is need for high quality training for young security specialists.

In summer 2017 Turība University was hosting NORDPLUS Intensive Course about Security.

Students gained knowledge of assessment of security tactics for guarded sites, basics of tactical planning and implementation methods for threat prevention and their legal regulation; comprehensive knowledge of facts, theory and correlations necessary for carrying out work related tasks, personal growth and development, public participation and social integration. There were topics of Stress Management in Crisis Situations, Globalization and Intercultural communication, Team-building, Cyber-security and Data protection as well as Copyrights included in the course.

«This Intensive Course has been organised for the first time in cooperation with two higher education institutions from Finland and Lithuania. Students from 3 countries had the opportunity to gain basic skills in organisation and individual security – how to organise security, what to pay attention to in the everyday routine, what to avoid and be aware of and how to handle various situations. Students could acquire basic security skills in criminalistics, management, stress management as well as individual security, close combat and shooting. This project gave us great opportunity to establish new cooperation with partners from Finland and Lithuania».

Vilnis Veinbergs, Turība University, Academic leader of the Course, Director of Security programme

«Security nowadays definitely is a global issue. During this summer Course we had great opportunity to cooperate with students and teachers from neighbouring countries. This gave us possibility to explore approaches to security issues of each participating countries as well as security tendencies in European context. Also during the summer course I gained contacts which will be very useful for me in my professional life. I had opportunity to improve my knowledge in subjects which I already studied and also learned a lot of new things, especially from the foreign participants. I believe summer course is great opportunity not only for security field students, but also for any young specialist as we gained lot of new knowledge and got contacts for further development».
